Tomorrow's Writers Today Free Workshop with Authors

Do you like to write? Do you use your imagination to create stories that entertain, thrill, create laughter or make others think about life? Maybe you have great story ideas but have difficulty completing them in a literary form. Are you thinking about a career in writing, publishing, journalism, communications, marketing or advertising?

If so, you're invited to apply to the Tomorrow's Writers Today program now offered by the Cape Cod Writers Center. This is a fun-filled, inspiring and tuition-free Saturday scheduled for Saturday, November 3, where you can study with prominent authors. Classes begin at 9:30 a.m. and end at 3:30 p.m. at the Barnstable Intermediate School in Hyannis. Students are expected to bring a bag lunch; Cape Cod Writers Center will provide drinks and snacks.

The program is an extension of the Cape Cod Writers Center Young Writers program held annually during our week-long summer conference. Perhaps you already know someone who has participated in that program. Just about everyone has enjoyed it and found it really helped improve their writing. For information about the Cape Cod Writers Center, please see www.capecodwriterscenter.org

To apply for the Tomorrow's Writers Today program, complete the application on the next page. Please include a writing sample from 500-1000 words. Applications must be postmarked by October 23, 2012. Those accepted will be notified by email or regular mail soon after receipt of their materials.

For more information email writers@capecodwriterscenter.org or call (508) 420-0200.
